The College of Arts and Sciences, under the leadership of Dean Princess Quintana, organized the EXTENSION ACTIVITY: CAS AGAPE for the students of Tiposu Elementary School on December 15, 2023. This event, which aimed to provide both material and emotional support, was made possible through the collective efforts of the college's faculty and students, who came together to uplift and bring joy to the children in the community.

In terms of objectives, the EXTENSION ACTIVITY: CAS AGAPE Program aimed to accomplish several key goals. Firstly, it focused on providing essential school supplies to underprivileged students, ensuring that they had the necessary tools for their education. This effort helped ease the financial burden on families who might otherwise struggle to afford these basic items. Secondly, the program sought to offer hope and encouragement to children from economically disadvantaged backgrounds, particularly during the holiday season. By providing gifts and support, it aimed to lift their spirits and remind them that they are valued. Finally, the initiative sought to instill a sense of social responsibility in the faculty and students of the College of Arts and Sciences. By engaging in this community outreach, the participants not only helped the children but also gained a deeper appreciation for the importance of service and giving back to the community.

As a result of these combined efforts, the EXTENSION ACTIVITY: CAS AGAPE at Tiposu Elementary School was a tremendous success. Not only did it provide essential school supplies to students in need, but it also brought joy and encouragement to help them stay motivated in their studies. Under the leadership of Dean Princess Quintana, the College of Arts and Sciences reaffirmed its dedication to social responsibility and community engagement, emphasizing the importance of supporting others, especially during the holiday season.

In conclusion, the event highlighted how even small acts of kindness can have a significant impact on the lives of others. Looking forward, the College of Arts and Sciences remains committed to continuing such outreach initiatives, striving to uplift and support the most vulnerable members of the community.
