

URDANETA CITY UNIVERSITY ADVANCES UN SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOAL 4 THROUGH INCLUSIVE EDUCATIONAL AND COMMUNITY PROGRAMS

Urdaneta City University (UCU) continues to champion the principles of United Nations Sustainable Development Goal 4 (Quality Education) by ensuring that learning opportunities are accessible to all. Through a wide range of public lectures, community-based learning initiatives, and extension programs, UCU reinforces its commitment to providing inclusive, equitable, and quality education beyond the walls of the classroom.

These initiatives, led by the University's dedicated extension and outreach programs, reflect UCU's mission to make knowledge a shared public resource. By hosting educational and community events that are open to the public, the University invites learners, professionals, and local residents to engage in meaningful discussions on pressing issues such as sustainable development, health education, local governance, and cultural awareness.

Expert-led lectures and collaborative forums serve as platforms for sharing insights, innovations, and best practices that inspire lifelong learning and community empowerment. Meanwhile, UCU's extension programs actively partner with local communities to conduct capacity-building workshops, livelihood and skills training, and literacy projects—all of which support the goal of inclusive and lifelong education for all.

Through these efforts, UCU exemplifies its commitment to SDG 4, promoting learning as a transformative force for social progress and national development. By continuously opening its doors to the public, UCU stands as a beacon of accessible education, empowering individuals, fostering collaboration, and nurturing an informed and engaged citizenry.

With every program and partnership, Urdaneta City University reaffirms its role as a dynamic catalyst for sustainable change—advancing the global vision of quality education for all
